Product number BML-9860-STKD-376-PZ-9007

Product description

Module with profile-cylinder aperture – prepared for site-supplied lock cylinder

The module with a prepared profile-cylinder aperture is a suitable addition to modular column solutions and allows the integration of a profile cylinder. It is ideal when an existing locking system is to be used or a custom lock provided on site is to be incorporated.

The prepared aperture is neatly integrated into the module faceplate and provides the basis for the professional installation of a suitable profile cylinder. This allows the module to be adapted flexibly to different requirements, for example in systems with a central locking system, a site-specific keying concept or a customer-specified cylinder.

The module blends unobtrusively into the overall system and provides a clear, functional design. The restrained finish is particularly suitable for high-quality mailbox systems, socket columns, reception solutions and bespoke property installations.

Thanks to the modular construction, the element can be easily inserted into the designated module opening. If required, the module can be exchanged later or adapted to changed requirements. This offers high flexibility in planning, installation and maintenance.

The profile cylinder is not included with the module and can be selected separately to suit the specific application. Module colour: RAL 9007 grey aluminium, fine-textured matt
