Product description

Module with profile cylinder cut-out – prepared for site-supplied lock cylinder

The module with a prepared profile cylinder cut-out is the ideal complement for modular column solutions and enables the integration of a profile cylinder. It is particularly suitable when an existing locking system is to be used or when a bespoke locking solution is to be incorporated on site.

The prepared cut-out is neatly incorporated into the module front panel and provides the basis for the professional fitting of a suitable profile cylinder. This allows the module to be flexibly adapted to different requirements, for example in systems with a central locking system, a site-specific keying concept or a customer-specified cylinder.

The module blends unobtrusively into the overall installation and ensures a clear, functional design. The restrained finish is especially suitable for high-quality mailbox systems, socket columns, reception solutions and individual site installations.

Thanks to the modular design, the element can be easily inserted into the designated module slot. If required, the module can be replaced later or adapted to changed requirements. This provides high flexibility in planning, installation and maintenance.

The profile cylinder is not included with the module and can be selected separately to suit the specific application.
