Product description

Modular socket and power column ORDO for floor mounting

The modular socket column ORDO is a functional and durable solution for secure power supply outdoors. It is suitable for use in gardens, on terraces, at campsites, in residential complexes and in commercial or publicly used areas. With its clear design language and robust construction, the socket column is versatile in use.

Made from galvanised steel and finished with a high-quality powder coating, the socket column provides long-lasting protection against corrosion and weathering. An integrated rain hood further protects the sockets from direct moisture. Manufacturing is carried out by Briefkasten Manufaktur in Germany and stands for precise craftsmanship and ‘Made in Germany’ quality.

The ORDO socket column is available in two heights, allowing it to be optimally adapted to the specific application. The modular design enables individual configuration as well as later modification or extension of the modules.

- Socket column made from galvanised steel, powder-coated in RAL 7016 anthracite grey, fine-structure matt.
- German quality manufacturing by Briefkasten Manufaktur (‘Made in Germany’).
- Integrated rain hood for protection against the elements.
- Modular design for individual configuration, e.g. with CEE or Schuko sockets, or pre-prepared modules for your own switch systems. Further additions such as switches, push-buttons, key switches, communication connectors, industrial power socket, motion detectors, water connection, lighting etc. are available on request.
- Socket modules protected at the rear by a high-quality plastic housing.
- Simple and well-thought-out installation: secure the column to the ground, carry out the wiring, slide in the front panel and fasten with screws.
