Product description

Modular socket and power column ORDO for freestanding installation

The modular socket column ORDO is a functional and long-lasting solution for safe outdoor power supply. It is suitable for use in gardens, on terraces, at campsites, in residential complexes and in commercial or publicly used areas. With its clear design language and robust construction, the socket column can be used in a wide range of applications.

Made from galvanized steel and high-quality powder-coated, the socket column offers lasting protection against corrosion and weathering. An integrated rain hood additionally protects the sockets from direct moisture. Manufacture is carried out by the Briefkasten Manufaktur in Germany and stands for precise craftsmanship and quality “Made in Germany”.

The ORDO socket column is available in two heights, allowing it to be optimally adapted to the specific area of application. The modular design enables individual configuration as well as later adaptation or extension of the modules.

- Socket column made of galvanized steel, powder-coated in RAL 9007 grey aluminium fine-texture matt.
- German quality manufacture by the Briefkasten Manufaktur (“Made in Germany”).
- Integrated rain hood for protection against the elements.
- Modular design for individual configuration, e.g. with CEE or Schuko sockets or pre-prepared modules for your own switch ranges. Further additions such as switches, push-buttons, key switches, communication connectors, industrial sockets, motion detectors, water connections, lighting etc. are available on request.
- Socket modules protected at the rear by a high-quality plastic housing.
- Simple, well-thought-out installation: secure the column to the floor, wire it, slide in the front panel and screw it in place.
